INTRODUCTION

Clarity Before You Send

Most buyers don't lose money because they're stupid.

They lose it because they miss the red flags until the money is already gone.

This quick checklist gives you the 7 most common red flags that quietly drain £80-£300+, before you realise what's happening!

The Rule

If you're spending money hoping it will change how someone treats you...

you've already lost control of the dynamic.

Use this checklist before you hit send on any tribute, custom, VIP upgrade or GFE session.

It's not anti-buyer

It's not anti-creator

It's not anti-fun

It's pro-clarity

Spend Smarter Online

If you use this guide, you'll:

- Understand emotional spending
- Avoid sunk-cost spirals
- Spot red-flags faster
- Have better experiences

Every spend becomes intentional.

THE 7 RED FLAGS

1. "Customs Welcome" with no clear details

You send the idea + money → you get 3–4 low-effort photos and silence.

Clarity: "Customs Welcome" often just means "I'll take the order".

2. GFE or "Personal Attention" without boundaries

They promise the girlfriend vibe... then go quiet after the first tip.

Clarity: Fantasy is fine. 24/7 availability is not realistic.

3. "Spoil Me" / "Tributes Welcome" + guilt

"Thank you 🙏" quickly turns into "I had a bad day... a little extra would help".

Clarity: This is the start of hope-based spending.

4. VIP Access that changes nothing

You pay extra for "priority"... replies stay the same speed as everyone else.

Clarity: If they can't tell you exactly what VIP includes, it's just an upsell.

5. Bundles that include things you don't want

"£65 bundle = 2 videos + photos + pants!" You buy the bundle to feel you got a deal... then realise you only wanted the videos.

Clarity: Bundles are designed to make you overspend on extras.

6. The Availability Test

Buyer DMs during a livestream or at 4am to "check" if it's really the creator replying.

Clarity: Creators don't owe 24/7 access. Buyers don't own creators' time.

7. The "Just One More" Trap

You've already spent £150 this month... so you send another £50 "to keep the vibe going".

Clarity: This is classic sunk-cost / hope-based spending.

FINAL CLARITY

Quick Action Step

Next time you feel the urge to send money, run it through these 7 flags first.
If 2 or more apply → pause. That urge is usually emotional, not logical.

Scams go both ways

Buyers get ghosted after paying.
Creators get ghosted after hours of free chat.
Clear expectations protect everyone.
